

For all intents and purposes, the Nairobi Innovation week is here with us.

On August 05 2015, all roads will be leading to the University of Nairobi for an opening ceremony of this mega event at the university's graduation grounds, officiated by senior UoN administration officials and the C4DLab Coordinator, who is also the chair of the Planning Committee.

To this end, the Committee in question has just announced a call for exhibitors on the Innovation Week website.

In the main, exhibitors from the six colleges of the University of Nairobi, innovators from the industry, research institutions, practitioners in various technology-related fields, entrepreneurs and Government are highly encouraged to apply right away from the site specifically dedicated for this event: innovationweek.co.ke.

By August 07, the last day, the function should have borne useful linkages, and innovator, university and partner visibility.
