

SSA Google Developers Group Summit

Last week three fourth students (Caleb Ndungi, Sharon Malio and Barke Said) from the school of Computing and Informatics went to Nigeria Lagos for the SSA Google Developers Group Summit that brings together all Leads in Africa to share experience and also to discuss ways in which they can reach and empower the tech community and not forgetting Lady developers(Women Tech Makers).

The three are organizing Code labs in the community. This is a two months short course that will empower beginning and intermediate Android developers and at the end the students who successfully complete the course will get a certificate from google inc. Caleb the community lead urges all students on the community to join the meetup group to receive updates on any activity happening in the community on the link below.
